SPEAKER: PETER VERMEULEN, PHD

November 19, 2024 | 8:00 am - 3:00 pm Central Time

ZOOM - INTERACTIVE WEBINAR

PACIFIC	MOUNTAIN	CENTRAL	EASTERN
Start Time: 6 am	Start Time: 7 am	Start Time: 8 am	Start Time: 9 am

This Webinar will replay as a recording on Friday November 22, beginning at 10 am Central Time. This is not a recording that can be downloaded and replayed at your own pace. All registered attendees will receive a link to the live webinar and a link to the recording replay on Friday. Full attendance will be taken during the replay and will still qualify you for a certificate of attendance and other professional development opportunities listed. "Live" Q&A feature with the speaker will not be available, however you will have the ability to use the "chat" feature to interact with other participants. Same registration process for both live webinar and the recording replay.

For children, youngsters and adults on the autism spectrum, who are absolute thinkers, the world with its ever changing meanings is very confusing and threatening. This is especially the case if autism goes together with low cognitive abilities or a young developmental age. Then, the world can be so threatening, that the only way to communicate stress and anxiety is through behaviors, such as a meltdown, a shutdown or even self-injurious behaviors or aggression. In this course we'll explore the underlying causes of these stress related behaviors and some strategies to cope with behaviors that can be challenging.

CONTENT OF THE WORKSHOP

The iceberg of stress related behaviors:

- Autistic thinking in a VUCA world results in stress and anxiety
- The link between emotional development and stress related behaviors: different stages of emotional development

How to prevent stress related behaviors: practical strategies:

- Predictability as the best way to prevent stress related behaviors
- A safe environment
- An environment that focuses on well-being: the H.A.P.P.Y. approach
- Autonomy as the protection against stress

The volcano of stress related behaviors: how to cope with meltdowns

- Different stages of a meltdown and how to react
- Low arousal

Teaching coping strategies to autistic people:

- How to make relaxation and calm down strategies autism friendly

Managing the beliefs and the stress of the people working with autistic people: coping strategies for the staff
